

The Daily Courant.

Wednesday, June 16. 1708.

London, June 16.

Yesterday arriv'd the 2 Mails that remain'd due from Holland.

From the Antwerp Courant &c. dated June 22. Cadix, May 27.

UPON certain Information that the Enemy's Fleet is up in the Mediterranean, the Flouilla for the West Indies sail'd the 23d Instant, under the Convoy of 7 French Ships of War, which are to see them as far as the Canaries. Yesterday march'd out 2 Battallions from hence for Badajoz.

From the Brussels Gazette, dated June 22.

Madrid, June 4. 'Tis advis'd from Badajoz, that the Portuguese Army descending from the Eminence on which they had encamp'd, had posted their Left Wing along the Rivulet of Cayuela; and that thereupon the Marquis de Bay pass'd that Rivulet also over the Bridge of Jevora, where he posted his Right, extending his Left towards the Port of St. Christopher, at the Distance of one League from the Camp of the Portuguese. 'Tis confirm'd that a Party of Portuguese Horse surpriz'd and took in the Village of Liceria 2 Companies of Spanish Foot; and that another strong Party having penetrated by the Way of Valencia d' Alcantara as far as the Town of Brosas, drove away 3000 Head of Cattle, with which they return'd to their Camp.

Madrid, June 5. They write from Saragossa, that the 27th of May 14 heavy Cannon arriv'd there, with above 150 Waggon's loaded with Ammunition. They were sent from Bayonne through Navarre. The 28th they all proceeded on for the Army under the Duke of Orleans, who having pass'd the Ebro on a Bridge laid at Mora, is to march from Ginestar the 8th Instant to Invest Tortosa if that be practicable. His Army had been 2 Days without Bread, the Miquelets having hinder'd the Passage of his Convoys and butlers. The Enemy who had lain encamp'd some Days near Soleras and in the Plain of St. Michel, have retir'd, and posted themselves between Monblanc and Tarragona, with the River Francoli before them, on a very advantageous Ground, whence the Imperial General Staremberg (being inform'd the English Fleet was arriv'd on the Coast of Catalonia,) is gone in all haste to Barcelona. Orders are sent from hence to Biscay, for sending from the Magazines of that Country to Arragon all the Ammunition that can be spar'd. A Courier from Cartagena has brought Letters to Court from Count Mahoni, advising, that he with his Troops arriv'd safe at Palermo.

From the Paris Letters of June 15, and 18.

Letters from Madrid import, That the 25th of May the Armies on the Frontier of Portugal chang'd their Camps; and lying now within the reach of each others Artillery, the Marquis de Bay caus'd 12 Cannon to be pointed against the Enemy's Camp: That many of the English deserted to our Army, which gave Ground to conjecture the Enemy are in want of Provisions: And that one of their Parties of 350 Men, Horse and Foot, pass'd the Sora, to give Molestation to the Workmen employ'd on the Fortifications of Alcantara, but contented themselves with carrying off some Cattle. The Duke of Orleans has caus'd all the Corn in Arragon to be brought together, for supplying his Army: Our Ambassador M. Amelot, has been very helpful to his Royal Highness, in procuring Corn for him. A Courier has brought the following News: The Duke of Orleans being inform'd, that the Enemy had sent a Detachment with 1200 Miquelets, to intercept his Convoys, gave Order for a general Forrage, and at the same time sent out a Detachment of 3000 Foot and 800 Horse, who surpriz'd the Enemy in the Village of Fallere: Their Cavalry endeavour'd to make to the Mountains, but were cut off; above 500 of the Enemy were kill'd, and 600 made Prisoners, among them 36 Officers.

Another Detachment of his Royal Highness's Army, took a Convoy of 1200 large Cattle, 6000 Sheep, and 4000 Hogs, going to Tortosa: In the said Village were also found Mulquers, Powder, Mules, and Horses. In these 2 Actions we had but 1 Officer wounded and 15 Soldiers kill'd or wounded.

From the Antwerp Courant, dated June 22.

Paris, June 18. They write from Perpignan the 8th Instant, that the Duke de Noailles with his Troops, continues encamp'd in the Plains of Cerovia and Torez on this side the Ter; and is to govern himself according to the Motions and Orders of the Duke of Orleans, who (it is reported here) will hardly be able to execute his Designs in Catalonia, because of the Deficiency of Provisions in the Magazines of Arragon.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated June 22.

Milan, June 9. To Morrow the Queen of Spain makes her publick Entry into this City, with extraordinary Pomp: And will soon proceed to Genoa, whence we have Advice by a Courier, that Admiral Leake was come before that Port with 36 Men of War and some other Ships, besides 100 Transport-Vessels to take in the Troops design'd for Catalonia: We have also a Confirmation of that Admiral's taking of 80 or 90 Tartans, laden with all Sorts of Provisions for the Duke of Orleans's Army; and that one of the Enemy's Ships of War was also taken or sunk: All those Prizes were carried into Barcelona.

Letters from Genoa give an Account, that a French Galliot equip'd for War and carrying 40 Men, which had been seiz'd by a Genouese Galley and afterwards releas'd, put out of the Port of Genoa the 30th at Night, and took under the Cannon of the City, notwithstanding the Fire made upon them, a Genouese Felucca coming from Final with Letters from Barcelona for the Ministers of the Allies at Genoa. In the Darkness of the Night the French Vessel got away with her Prize, being pursued in vain by a Genouese Galley. The French Captain leaving his Prize at Savona, with Part of his Crew to guard her, return'd the next Day to Genoa, with the Genouese Sailors of the Felucca, and 2 Catalonians, who were bound. The Captain came ashore, and deliver'd into the Hands of the French Envoy the Letters he had found aboard the Felucca. In the mean time some Genouese seeing their Countrymen bound and Prisoners, had Words with the French; and a Genouese Galley laid herself athwart the Galliot to prevent her getting away. Upon this the French began to fire with their Paradoes and small Arms at the Genouese, who pelted them with Stones; and the Populace drew together in such Numbers, and dealt such Showers of Stones into the Galliot, that all her Company, 2 or 3 excepted, were hurt: And some died of their Wounds or Bruises. The Galliot was seiz'd, and the rest of the French were secur'd from the Fury of the Multitude. Those that were dangerously hurt, were carried to the Hospital, and the others are put on board a Galley. This Affair makes a great Noise. The Envoy of France demands Satisfaction for the Insult made on a French Ship; and the Emperour's Envoy demands Satisfaction for the taking of the Felucca with her Letters under the Cannon of a neutral Place. The Senate has taken all the Pains imaginable to accommodate the Matter, but to no purpose; and the French Envoy has left Genoa.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated June 23.

Muhlberg, June 15. Yesterday the Elector of Hannover, with all his Retinue, arriv'd here, and was receiv'd by Baron d'Erffa General of the Artillery of Franconia, General Thungen being indispos'd. At Liakenheim were drawn up several Squadrons of Horse and Dragoons, which his Electoral Highness review'd: All the other Regiments were under Arms in the Way his Electoral Highness was to pass hither, and he express'd himself extremely satisfy'd with the good not expected here; and before their Arrival we shall not break up, notwithstanding 'tis rumour'd that we shall pass the Rhine next Week. Orders are dispatch'd to whole Regiments to hasten their March, that we may attack the Enemy's Army which is weaken'd by their Detachments towards the Moselle. The Elector of Hanover has had a Conference with General Thungen in his Quarters. We have confirm'd Intelligence, that the Enemy cut down and destroy'd all the green Forrage on the other side of the Rhine, that if we pass over thither we may want Subsistence for our Cavalry. To Day the Prince of Baden Dourlach, General of Artillery, arriv'd here. All the Regiments are order'd to hold their lives in a Readiness to march.

Trier, June 19. The 12th Instant the Elector of Bavaria din'd at Beckingen: His Army lies extended from Wadgassen to Saar-Louis, and lay waste the Country: Yet they hold themselves in a readiness to March, and have Bridges ready over the Saar at Dillengen near Saar-Louis, and over the Moselle at Sirk, that they may move as they shall find Occasion. 2 Regiments are order'd back to Luxembourg. All our Boats are sent up from hence to be us'd in making Bridges: And also 200 Waggons, with a requisite Number of Horses are to be sent from hence to the Army.

From the Amsterdam Courant, &c. dated June 23.

Frankfort, June 17. The 14th Instant, 4 or 5 Regiments of Palatines pass'd the Rhine at Mentz, in their Way towards the Moselle; and 12 Regiments more of the Palatine Forces, have already pass'd the Main at Coblentz within a few Miles of Mentz, following the rest. Three Imperial Regiments of Horse take the same Route. The 15th a Courier from the Forces encamp'd at Gunterhausen brought Letters for Prince Eugene of Savoy; who thereupon set out from hence with his Retinue to Day, for Mentz, thence to proceed to the said Camp: The Elector of Bavaria and the Duke of Berwick are said to be preparing to advance with their Army from Saar-Louis towards Trier. They have left 3000 Men in Fort-Kell; and 10 Regiments of Horse, with 20 of Foot, making at most 15000 Men, and those the worst of their Troops, in the Lines of Lauterbourg under M. du Bourg, to observe the Army of the Empire. 'Tis said the Elector of Bavaria has receiv'd Orders from the King to secure several strong Posts in the Duchy of Lorraine if he finds it necessary. The Forces of the Allies that are to serve under Prince Eugene, will in a few Days be all join'd in a Body, and will then be 40000 Men strong.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated June 22.

Coblentz, June 18. Prince Eugene of Savoy is expected here to Day or to Morrow, to confer with the Elector of Trier: Which done, he will put himself at the Head of his Army encamp'd between Gunterhausen and St. Gothart in the Hondsruch. The Elector of Bavaria and the Duke of Berwick are encamp'd near Saar-Louis with 30000 Men; and give out that they expect from Flanders a Reinforcement of 15 Battalions and several Squadrons: They have been to view the Situation of the Country some Leagues on this side the Saar.

From the Camp at Terbanck, June 21. Several Parties of the Enemy lurking in the Woods about our Camp, with Design chiefly to steal Horses, the Duke of Marlborough granted Commissions about a Week ago to divers Party-Leaders of our Army, with a Reward of 2 Crowns for every Prisoner they shall bring: Which has already had a very good Effect, several of their Parties having since been brought into our Camp. On Advice that the Enemy have posted several strong Parties in the Wood of Soignies, between their Camp and Brussels, Brigadier Evans was sent the 19th with 4 Battalions, to encamp in the Counterscarp of that City, to reinforce its Garrison and prevent any Insult which those Parties might attempt to make on its Suburbs. Both Armies continue in their former Camps. The Enemy suffer much for want of Forrage and Water. The Electoral Prince of Hanover, who arriv'd Yesterday at Antwerp, is expected here to Morrow, to make the Campaign with our Army.
